Appointment of Thomas Harris as Australian Exploration Manager

GEO Exploration Limited (AIM: GEO) is pleased to announce that it has strengthened its technical leadership through the appointment of Thomas Harris as GEO's Australian Exploration Manager with direct Havieron discovery experience, having worked at Greatland Gold alongside Callum Baxter, to enhance in-country operational execution and oversight.

Thomas brings over 15 years' experience across gold and base metal exploration and has held roles with Newcrest, Oz Minerals, Agnico Eagle (Consultant) and Greatland Gold. He has been involved in multiple significant gold-copper discoveries and was an integral member of the technical team associated with Havieron, Khamsin and Freemantle Doctor discoveries.

His experience spans across Australia, Asia, Africa and the Americas, and his appointment further strengthens GEO's in-country technical capability as exploration activities advance on our Australian projects.

Thomas will work closely with GEO's technical Consultant Mr Callum Baxter, as GEO continues to progress its exploration programmes. Together they will also explore new opportunities should they arise in the future.

Omar Ahmad, Chief Executive Officer, commented:

"GEO Exploration Limited and the Board welcome Mr Harris who will be an integral member of the team. His appointment represents a positive and progressive step as we continue to grow into a multi-asset company.

His experience, of major discoveries including his involvement in the Havieron discovery and working closely alongside Mr Callum Baxter, will be of significant benefit to both our current and future asset base."
